Ur-Energy Begins Geophysical Surveying at Screech Lake Project

Denver, Colorado (Marketwire – August 10, 2009) Ur-Energy Inc. (TSX:URE, NYSE Amex:URG) (“Ur-Energy” or “the Company”) is pleased to announce that geophysical and survey crews have started work on the Screech Lake Project in the southern Thelon Basin, Northwest Territories, Canada. The management of Ur-Energy would like to thank the band council and the Lutsel K’e community for enabling the Company to carry out ground geophysics, surveying and soil sampling activities at its Screech Lake project.

Ur-Energy continues discussions with First Nations groups and Aboriginal-owned business corporations towards an exploration agreement for the Screech Lake project. While those discussions continue, the Company is conducting a short field program that includes an audio-magnetotelluric geophysical survey and additional claim management with full support of the Lutsel K’e community.

Bill Boberg, President and CEO said, “We are pleased to have had the opportunity over the past year to develop an initial working relationship with the Lutsel K’e community. This summer’s geophysical program will provide us with necessary information to assist us in better planning a future drilling program. We will continue to work closely with the community to ensure our future ability to determine the full potential of this exciting exploration project.”
